bitonists set up their leaders—California Republicans nominate judges with the view of having them non-partisan—Campaign Notes.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Aug. 27.—The state convention of Democrats met at noon Thursday in representatives' hall and elected a temporary organization by the election of the ticket chosen Wednesday night by the state central committee. Senator James W. Duncan became thereby temporary chairman. In his speech opening the convention, Chairman Orndorff outlined the present national administration and foretold its fall. He said the future of the Republican party, which he said would follow a Democratic victory in 1884. Referring to the president's position, he said, "He is not only not a Republican, but he is not a Democrat either. He is a man who has been elected by the people, and he is a man who has been elected by the people."

Upon assuming the chair Mr. Duncan spoke hopefully of Democratic prospects in this state, saying that the party had the opportunity of taking charge of state affairs. He spoke highly of the president's administration and declared that the country's future was in the hands of the people. He closed with an appeal for a campaign and such management of political affairs in this state as should enable the party to send Democrats to the senate.

There were two contests for places on the state central committee—one between Congressman Lawler and J. J. Curran, of Chicago, over the question of the Senate district, which was referred to a committee.
Lawler presented the name of J. C. Strain, and Curran his own name. The other contest was also between Curran, between W. C.
Goudy and Michael McCallan, of Chicago.
McCallan's name was also referred to a committee. Van Pelt was McCallan's opponent, but was defeated, the selections being: Alfred Orndorff, James A. Riving, W. E. Green, A. A. Goodrich, Charles Kerr, E. M. Malone and J. W. Jones.

After the regular committee had been appointed, a recess until 3 p. m. was taken, and upon the resuming of the convention the temporary organization was made permanent. Nominations were thereafter declared in order, and the following are the nominees: For state treasurer, J. J. P.
Hickler, of Quincy; for superintendent of public instruction, F. J. O'Leary, of Janesville.
The platform adopted was a financial platform in which gold and silver coin and paper currency convertible into coin on demand should constitute the circulating medium; declare that the surplus in the national treasury should be applied to the payment of the bonded debt; oppose importation of foreign labor; demands legislation to prevent unscrupulous immigration; stringent laws for the benefit of employees of railroads, manufacturing establishments and mines; favors arbitration to settle labor disputes, and the enactment of laws to prohibit convict labor from coming into competition with honest labor.

The liquor plank says: "It is not the legitimate province of government to control the habits, tastes, appetites and liberties of the people so long as they are orderly and peaceable; prohibition by constitution or general laws of the manufacture and sale of liquors would be a violation of individual and personal rights, and contrary to the fundamental principles of free government."

The tariff plank favors a reduction of the present tariff to a revenue basis, and on-deres the action of those Democratic representatives in congress who were faithful to the cause of tariff reform.

The deaths of McClellan, Hancock, Tilden, Hendricks and Seymour are deplored and their lives commended as worthy of all imitation.

The state central committee was elected, after which the convention adjourned.
John J. Curran was selected as committee-man from the Second district.

MICHIGAN REPUBLICANS.
Concluding Work of the State Convention
—The Ticket and Platform.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Aug. 27.—The Republican convention assembled here after 9 o'clock Thursday morning and elected a permanent organization. Hon.
Austin Blair, of Jackson, was selected as permanent president and Daniel L. Crossman as permanent secretary.

The platform, which was adopted by a decisive vote, points with pride to the record of the party; favors tariff on imported products of low-priced foreign labor; declares in favor of specie payment, and the use of both gold and silver as a constant with sound principles of finance; indorses the organization of labor; favors the enactment of arbitration laws; opposes the importation of Chinese and foreign contract labor; favors any plan for the relief of labor from competition with convict labor, and denounces anarchy.

The platform also favors local option on temperance questions; opposes the granting of public domain to non-resident foreigners; indorses the policy of generous pensions to war veterans, and in this connection denounces President Cleveland's policy; favors the regulation of interstate commerce; demands the passage of laws for the suppression of polygamy and their enforcement by the military if necessary; expresses sympathy with the Irish home rulers; condemns the Democracy in congress for refusing the admission of Dakota; and charges the party with incompetency in considering national affairs.

A majority report on resolutions was presented, over which there was a hot, but brief discussion. It favored the ultimate suppression of the liquor traffic.

The following ticket was nominated: Governor, Cyrus C. Luce, of Grand Rapids; lieutenant governor, James H. McFarland, of Escanaba; secretary of state, George H.
Osman, of Detroit; treasurer, George S.
Walt, of Alpena; auditor general, H. H.
Alpin, of Bay City; attorney general, Moses Taggart, of Grand Rapids; commissioner of the land office, Roscoe D. Dicks, of Marquette; superintendent of public instruction, Joseph Westbrook, of Ypsilanti; justice of the peace, John H. McFarland, chairman of the state central committee.

The convention adjourned sine die at 3:30 p. m.

OLD PARTIES NO GOOD.
So Say the Keystone State Foretellors —Close of Their Convention.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Aug. 27.—Delegates to the number of 674 were present at the second session of the Republican convention. The first thing on the calendar was the raising of money for the campaign, and the finance committee asked $10,000.
Of this over $5,000 was pledged and part paid by two colored men—J. H. Becker, of Washington City, and Rev. Palmer.
The former declared that the colored people were prepared to fight a worse system than slavery and were tired of the old parties. Mr.
Palmer spoke on the prohibition issue in general. The convention took recess after nominating Charles F. Wolfe as anonymously nominated for governor, A.
A. Barker for lieutenant governor, Charles L. Hawley for auditor, John H. Emory for secretary of state and Rev. John M. Palmer for congressman-at-large.

The platform adopted declares for the annihilation of the liquor traffic, declares both old parties entirely untrustworthy and asks the people to repudiate them, rescuing society from the evils of liquor drinking. It denounces railway discrimination, demands the continued existence of a protective tariff, and advocates the settlement of disputes between capital and labor by arbitration; urges that sectional ism as between north and south be made a thing of the past; demands a national and uniform marriage law and a pure and free ballot, and denounces the liquor plank of the Republican platform as a trap.

After the nominations all the candidates made brief speeches, and the Democracy was sung and the convention adjourned sine die.
Professor H. S. Patton was chosen chairman of the state committee. He will select the executive committee.

commissioner of the general land office, A.
Gould, of Fort Worth; auditor general, C. W.
Johnson, of Young; superintendent of public instruction, H. Kline, of Harris.

A platform was adopted favoring the submission of a prohibition amendment to the constitution to the vote of the people; opposing the leasing of public lands and demanding their confinement within public limits; denouncing monopolies and favoring the educational bill. Resolutions of respect to the memory of John C. Drinckley, Gen. Grant, and Samuel J.
Tilden were adopted.

The Republicans declare that they have no hope of electing their ticket, but only desire to keep up their organization in anticipation of a Republican victory in 1888.

THE WASTING DISEASES OF INFANTS and children are by no means confined to an insufficient supply of food. The trouble is that the food is injudiciously selected, and the infant is given more than the food, when prepared according to the directions, forms the best substitute for mother's milk that has ever been produced.

CHICAGO, Aug. 27.—Twenty-five or thirty least burdensome to all labor and least oppressive to manufacturing interests, all proper conditions considered.

A resolution was adopted instructing the executive committee to inquire into the constitutionality of a law to be passed by congress prohibiting the sale of goods the product of convict labor outside of the state in which the manufacturer, and, in constantial objections being made, to procure the passage of such a law by congress.
